EURAZEO GROWTH RENEWS ITS SUPPORT FOR DOCTOLIB BY CONTRIBUTING TO ITS NEW FUNDRAISING

PARIS, March 20, 2019 - Eurazeo Growth, a Doctolib shareholder since November 2017, has contributed to the company's latest €150 million fundraising, organized with the investment fund General Atlantic and certain historical shareholders. Eurazeo Growth has invested a total of €55 million in Doctolib.

These funds will be used by the company to pursue its investments in France and Germany, boost the deployment of its teleconsultation service, further enhance its products and penetrate new countries.

Doctolib is Europe's leading online booking platform and web services provider for healthcare professionals. Since its creation in 2013, Doctolib has revolutionized the medical appointment booking process. The company proposes software for healthcare professionals to improve their organizational efficiency, transform the patient experience, promote their business and strengthen cooperation with fellow practitioners. Doctolib makes it easier for patients to find and contact healthcare professionals. They can also book appointments online 24/7 and conduct teleconsultations.

Yann du Rusquec, Managing Director of Eurazeo Growth declared: "In a few years, Doctolib has become the undisputed e-healthcare leader in Europe, thanks to the determination, ambition and audacity of its teams and their remarkable ability to deliver results. There are huge development possibilities in France and internationally and we're delighted to contribute to this new fundraising."

Stanislas Niox-Château, Chairman and co-founder of Doctolib, added: "Our priority is to invest in the team. We'll double in size in the next 3 years and we'll continue investing to ensure the personal development of our employees. We now have 750 employees with the same entrepreneurial frame of mind, the same enthusiasm for the healthcare system and the same devotion to the daily service that we provide to practitioners, secretaries and patients."
